ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF FREEDOM

By the Colored People of This City and Tri-State Radius at the Fair Grounds.

BRILLIANT SPEECHES MADE

By Wheeling's Colored Lawyer and Dr. C. H. Payne, of Huntington—The Speeches.

The anniversary day of the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation by Abraham Lincoln was celebrated with great eclat by the colored population of this city yesterday. It has been thirty-seven years since the Farmer President unbound the shackles from the slaves, and they, with their hearts surcharged with gratitude, remember and celebrate the day with the same devotion as of old.

Yesterday's celebration took the form of an outing at the State Fair grounds. Prominent speakers were present and delivered addresses, and enthused the crowd with patriotic speeches. Preceding the picnic a parade passed over the principal streets, and disbanded at the grounds. The following is the line of the parade:

Platoon of Nine Police.
Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias.
American Patriots.
Odd Fellows.
Republican Club, of Bellaire.
Patriarchs, of Washington, Pa.
Blue Lodge, Knights of Pythias.
Odd Fellows, of Washington, Pa.
McKinley and Gill Club, of Bellaire.
Four Carriages, Containing the Mayor and Others.

At the grounds there were many attractions provided by the seductive fad. Dancing was indulged in on the pavilion to the music of the Opera House orchestra. The Opera House band discoursed patriotic airs in the grand stand.

At the Fair Grounds.

The programme of the day opened with prayer and invocation by the Rev. Mr. Bentley, who also delivered the address of welcome, in place of Mayor Sweeney, who was unavoidably absent. W. H. Winters replied in a neat speech. Miss Jessie Reed then read the Emancipation Proclamation. This was followed by an eloquent address by Attorney Thomas Norris.

Mr. Norris began by saying that this was the only day the colored people could well call their own. Lincoln declared that a government half slave and half free could not survive. Any suppression of human existence may be attended with disastrous results. It had caused dissolution of the Roman empire. It gave rise to nihilism in Russia. It gave rise to anarchy. Human endurance had its limit. Beyond that limit chaos and desolation ensued. They could do nothing to so enlighten the public mind as to perpetuate the memories of those who had helped them. Slavery was repugnant to the fundamental principles of the constitution. Slavery, despite anything said to the contrary, was the cause of the Civil war.

The Union the Victor.

The Union was the victor in that great conflict, but never was victory won from more courageous and valiant opponents. The negro assisted in that war, as in all the wars before and all the wars since.

They gathered to commemorate the proclamation that was a result of the conflict. They had a feeling of patriotism and pride as a result of that war. The moral influence of this government was good. The appeal of the humblest citizen should not be in vain. None were more unwaveringly loyal to the government than the negro. This country was a haven of refuge for the poor and the oppressed. What had the future in store for the negro in this country? Since the war it had been a constant warfare on the part of the negro against total annihilation. Whether should they flee from the unkind wrath of so unkind a foe? We have over us the same Omnipotent God. Mob violence, lynching and disfranchisement were the outcome of hate and revenge. The strength and glory of our country lay in the obedience to the laws of the land.

Mr. Norris said that patriotism and citizenship began at home. There was dignity in all honest toil. There was a mistaken notion that dignity followed only the doctor, the preacher and the lawyer. Opportunities cast themselves daily at the feet of men.

The speaker then paid a tribute to Booker T. Washington for his great services towards the amelioration of the conditions of the colored man. We all should take lessons from the grand symphony of God's nature. Disfranchisement in the south was but the culmination of a sentiment of long existence. It could never be made permanent.

Dr. Payne Speaks.

The next speaker was Dr. C. H. Payne, of Huntington. He said he could not agree with the statement of Mr. Norris that this hate would follow us to heaven. If we get to heaven the crowd that is after us will not be there. They had the capacity to appreciate the importance of the day. Reverence of its great men had made the white race so great. The negro was not brought here from choice, but because of his strong physical condition, to aid and develop this country. It was the genius of a negro that planned the cotton bale fortifications at New Orleans, but General Jackson got the credit for it.

No race in the world, Mr. Payne said, would have submitted as quietly as they did. God was behind Abraham Lincoln when he issued the proclamation. The speaker advised his race to save their money and acquire property. The man that owned something always commanded respect. He did not like the theory of the white man that all coons looked alike. In the negro race were as honest, pure and virtuous women as in any race. He advised them to cultivate a fraternal union with all people.
